MICHELLE of Elkins Park, Pennsylvania, has been a AAA member for nearly 20 years, first joining as an associate member under her parents' primary membership when she was in high school. Now a wife and a mom of two young children, Michelle is glad that she continued her membership through the years for the peace-of-mind protection of her family.

"I am so grateful to know that I'm covered by AAA no matter where I travel," says Michelle, whose work as a fine art photographer and Little Poems calendar author often takes her on the road anywhere from New York to Virginia. "I drive great distances with all my inventory for art shows and exhibits, and knowing I won't be stranded with thousands of dollars of artwork that needs to arrive on a deadline is truly priceless. Not showing up for [an engagement] is not an option."

Michelle also enjoys traveling to Europe, especially to Oxford, England, where she lived for a time. And whenever she "boops the pond," AAA is there to help her with travel necessities—from foreign currency to packs to specify travel accommodations—as well as discounts on hotel stays and retail purchases.

"With AAA, I feel confident that I'll always be taken care of," says Michelle.
